

XUMO and Spectrum Cloud DVR vs. Cable Box with DVR Service

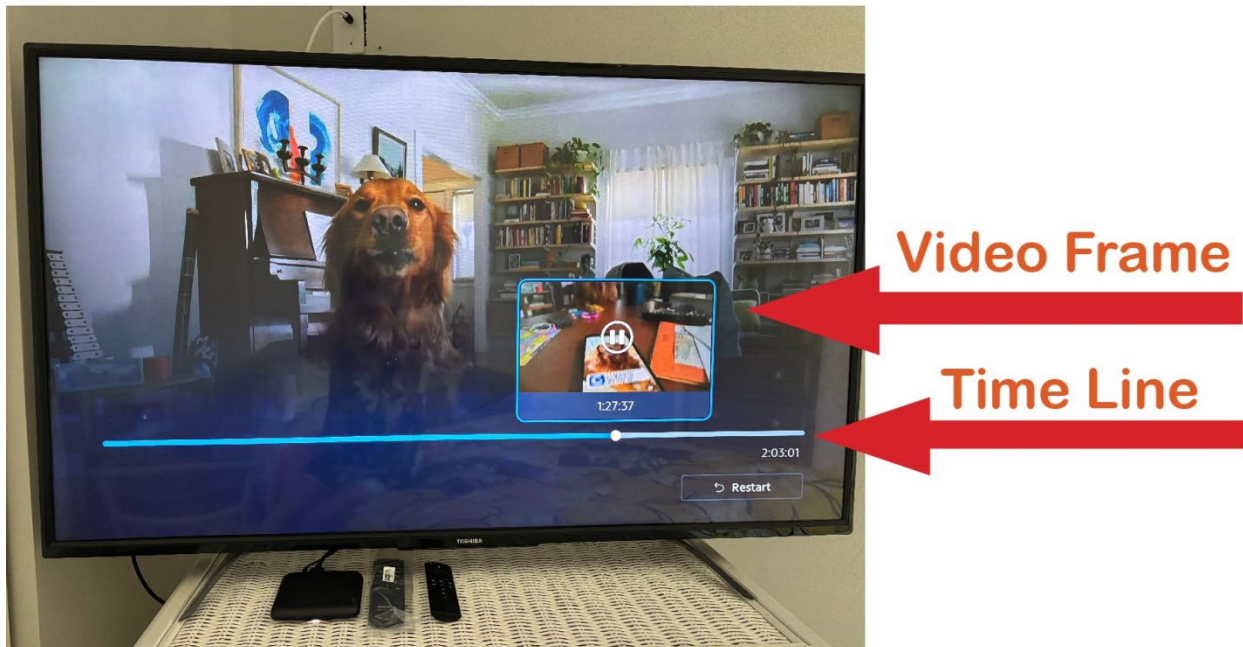

Hello Members:

New equipment and services are available in the Trailer Estates bulk contract with Spectrum. A new recording service called Spectrum Cloud DVR is available and a new streaming video device called Xumo are available as other options.

Let's take a look at the pros and cons of choosing Spectrum Cloud DVR service vs. Cable box with DVR recorder built into the box.

Cable SET TOP BOX with DVR built in allows you to schedule multiple recordings of programs when they are broadcast. Once they are recorded you can only watch them on the TV hooked up to that specific cable box. This DVR service also lets you pause, rewind and fast forward through Live programming as well. Keep in mind you can only rewind back to when you first tuned into the channel with a limit of 90 minutes. When you rewind, pause or fast forward a time line at the bottom of the screen will display video frames so you can see what point in the program you have reached to know when to resume play.

TV Screen in Pause Mode

The video frames display images so you can see what point in the program you have reached so you know when to resume play. Easy to see.

The time line displays the point of time in the program you have reached. Hard to see.

Cloud DVR Service allows you to schedule multiple recordings of programs when they are broadcast. Once they are recorded you can only watch them on any TV or device the Spectrum TV app is installed on. You can pause, rewind and fast forward through recording however video frames do not display on the time line using the app on all devices. The only device the time line displays video frames is on a Xumo device from Spectrum. Live TV: Pause, rewind and fast forward is only available on a Xumo device supplied by Spectrum and can only rewind back 30 minutes.
